Appearance and Bally Life of the Pour

One of our correspondents has had a conversation with Rev. Philip Barry, Canon of the Cashel Cathedral. The Canon spoke as follows: "Lee XIII. is now seventy-four years of age. He is tall, thin and bony. His face is of an ivory tint, and his eyes and lips are very expressive and smiling. He looks very firm. Simeon says he resembles Voltaire, but Leo XIII is smile is totally different to Voltaire's smile. The Pope wears his age well and walks remark-ably straight. He has snow-white hair and very finely marked eyebrows. His eyes are wonderfully intelligent-looking, and his voice is extremely harmonfous. He speaks several languages monious. He speaks several languages as well as any professor of languages. He never says a foolish thing nor does a foolish thing, like poor Pius IX., whose policy was fatal to the Pope's temporal power. He rises very early, and spends the first hours of the day in prayer, and generally in his bed-room. At six o'clock he says mass. At eight o'clock he breaks his fast with a cup of chocolate, reading his correspondences o'clock he breaks his last with a cup of chocolate, reading his correspondence all the time. At nine o'clock he re-ceives Jacobini and the chiefs of re-ligious societies. At noon ho-receives those Roman patrianche who have re-mained true to him and the Embassa-

"At one o'clock he dines, his dinner rarely costing more than two francs, or half a dollar." "And he keeps so many cooks!" said the correspondent. "He is obliged to keep up appearances," answered the canon. "Once upon a answered the canon. "Once upon a time Popes were great eaters and drinkers, and were given to every kind of extravagance; but Leo XIII. is nothing of all this. After dinner be takes a little walk in the Vatican grounds, or he visits the museums, galleries, etc. Sometimes he is carried in a chair quilted with white satin. a chair quilted with white satin. He is very fond of the garden, and likes to play the gardener at times. He frequently receives visitors in the garden, and talks of flowers to them to avoid other subjects. The first and second times I saw him he was in the garden. When I went with the pilgrims he was preceded by three noble guards, and at his side was Monsignor Macchi, his secret chamberlain. He-wore a widebrimmed hat and a large red cloak. We were presented to him one by one. He looked at us and scrutinized us well. I saw he recognized me, but he treated me like the others—as if he saw me also for the first time. 'Are you all Irish?' he said; 'I am happy to receive the faithful of that nation! looked again at us as if he would have read into our souls. Your Bishop,' he continued, 'brought me offerings from a people pressed with poverty.' Then seeing me still on my knees, he offered me his hand to rise me. 'I had thought,' he continued,
'that the offerings would have decreased;
but it was not so. We live on charity' (and here he smiled sadly) 'for all we had has been taken from us. Oh! these persecutions!' he cried with a loud They purify us even when the seem to see him now," said the canon 'His head looked like a relief in a blue sky. The sun was setting, and he looked up to the sky as if seeking an inspira-tion there, 'I have heard,' he then said, that notwithstanding the general state of anguish in Ireland, the churches are full of people. May the Lord be praised and blessed, and may my prayers bring peace on the people! Lord, hear our prayers and judge us!"

"He then blessed us, and the audience was finished. I have never seen so much power united to so much simplicity At four o'clock the Pope resumes his official audiences in the Vatcan. At seven o'clock only he takes a little rest, but at eight o'clock he returns to work in his private rooms, where he remains until ten o'clock, when he retires for the night."-Il Capitan Fra-

Queer Method of a Bribe-Giver,

John W. O'Connell, of the School Board, thus tells how a man in the employ of a publishing firm tried to bribe him to use his influence in behalf of a geography: "He approached me and began to talk of the merits of the book." As we were about to part he handed me a copy of the new book with a remark that I would find it interesting. I laid the book on the table and my friend went away. When subsequently turn-ing over the leaves of the book I discovered what he meant by interes for snugly ensconced between the leaves for snugly ensconced between the leaves I found a check for $200 signed with a name which I recognized as that of a book agent. I sent for my friend and gave him a very large piece of my manifand his check. But for his excellent family I would expose him " St. Louis Past-Disputch." Post-Dippatch.
